PITTSBURGH STEEL BONDS WIN PREMIUM

The Pittsburgh Steel Company of he main office in Pittsburgh has filed nal notice of the increase in its apital stock from $14,000,000 to 17,000,000, also making public the ale of the bonds, the purchasers pay g a bonus of $21,666 67.

As heretofore stated through the olumns of the Daily Independent, his new bond issue was decided upon y the directors and stockholders of he Pittsburgh Steel Co., in order to reate a fund on which to draw for ne enlargement of the Monessen lant which is now in progress.

It will be remembered that when his company first began operations in lonessen, fence wire and nails in the arious forms was about the extent f the output. But the plans as napped out by the wise heads of the oncern worked out successfully and rom time-to-time more buildings were rected, different departments added, nd some months ago it was decided hat another enlargement was necessary. Hence the increase in capitalzation; the acreage has been added to until in the neighborhood of thirty acres are now occupied. Two blast furnaces and four additional open hearth furnaces are being now excavated for and the work is going along most gratifyingly.

With the completion of this addition the Pittsburg Steel Company will become wholly independent as it controls its own ore fields along the great lakes and will be in position to place their products on the market without any assistance whatever from outside concerns. The new stock issue is preferred at seven per cent.

Child Inhumanly Assaulted

According to a report received this morning a little girl aged 7 years is in a very precarious condition at the home of her parents in Charleroi as the result of a crime which is alleged to have been attemped on her several days ago by an unknown party. The child refuses to divulge the name of her supposed betrayer and so far the police have but a faint clue upon which to work. This makes the second case of its kind that has come to light in this vicinity wihtin the last few days and is the seventh case of a similar nature that has occurred hereabouts within the last few weeks

EVERYONE PLEASED WITH STOCK OPENING

Regardless of the extreme humidity of last night the Star Theatre was almost filled to witness the opening bill of the new Star Stock Co., "The Golden Giant Mine, under the personal direction of Will F. McNulty, and the prediction heretofore made by the Independent that success would crown the opening was fully borne out. It was in every way all that any one could ask, the only hitch being a catch in the drop curtain on the climax of the first act.

The cast as each appeared follows:

Jim Bixby.....Mr. Claude Boardman
Tom Flinn.....Mr. Chas. H. Lynch
Mrs. Boggs.....Miss Helen Gerould
Duncan LaMoin.....
.....Mr. J. G. MacFarlane
Jack Mason Mr. Billy Cunningham
Ethel Wayne . Miss Annie Pomery
Alex Fairfax ..Mr. Will F. McNulty
Bess Fairfax....Miss Norma Lynwood
Max Wayne ..... Mr. Hugh Wright

To attempt to star any one member of this exceptionally strong and well balanced company would be fruitless; it would be impossible, as each and every one is so fitted for the respective parts that it would be hard to place one above the other. In fact the company within itself don't feature any particular one, leaving the patrons of the house to be the judges.

For all the time for rehearsals was short, there was not a blunder or a misplaced word noticeable, each member of the cast going into the parts as though they had been working together for years. The audience was more than pleased, and that speaks louder than any word we could write. It is a powerful drama, exceptionally well played and the special scenery furnished a sitting natural to life. Don't be backward, people, about going. If you miss this beautiful play, you'll regret it. Hereafter the fans will be kept in constant motion and the house will be cool and comfortable. Tonight, Saturday night and Saturday Matinee. So don't miss it.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS HOLD AN OPEN MEETING

An open meeting of the Knights of Columbus was held last evening in the Elk's hall and several hundred guests were present including the Knights and their ladies. The affair was one of the most enjoyable ever held by the local branch of the order and in addition to local members there were visiting delegations present from surrounding towns.

An interesting program had been arranged and included solos by the Misses Regina Stevenson, Novellia O'Reilly, and Martin Griffan and recitations by Miss Anna Currie, and Stephen Morgan of McKeesport. The principal address of the evening was delivered by the Rev. Father Maher of Roscoe. The reponse was made by the Rev. Father W. J. Hogan of this place.

One of the most enjoyable events of the fast waning school season was the banquet tendered the Seniors of the High School last evening in the dining rooms of the Kilroy hotel by the members of the Junior class. An elaborate and appetizing menu had been arranged by the Messrs. Kilroy and every little detail was carried out to perfection.

The dining parlors were beautifully decorated with the colors of the class, blue and old gold interspersed with the school colors, black and white. Clusters of roses adorned the tables, the menu cards were decorated with the old gold and blue of the class. Albert Ferren of the Junior class filled the office of toastmaster in a very suitable manner. The members of the Senior class all gave short speeches while Thomas Preston spoke for the Junior class. Short talks were also made by Professors H. E. Gress and S. W. Lyons. There were present in addition to the members of the two classes the members of the faculty of the school.

MAN DYING FROM INJURIES

As a result of injuries received in the local plant of the Pittsburgh Steel Co., W. J. Heckel an employee of the company is dying at his home on Donner avenue. The dying man was crushed in the stomach Tuesday evening and since that time has been hovering between life and death.

This morning about 9 o'cock he lapsed into unconsciousness and his wife thinking he had passed away became hysterical and was placed under the effects of chloroform. The injured man recovered from his spell a short time later but little hope is being held out for his recovery.

In addition to his wife he has four children. Mr. Heckel was formerly one of the leading cartoonists for the Pittsburgh Post and came here a short time ago, securing work in the mills

Monongahela School Picnic

The Monongahela public schools held a very successful picnic yesterday at Eldora park and one of the largest crowds of the season was present. Today the Charleroi schools are holding their picnic at this popular resort and another big is expected. A large number of picnics are being held this year at the park and the management is making many improvements for the patrons.

MONESSEN HIGH EVENS UP

The Monessen High School secured sweet revenge yesterday afternoon at Page park for a defeat recently handed them by the Charleroi High School by trouncing the visitors in a hotly contested game 11 to 10. Myers pitched for the locals. Phillips dished up the benders for Charleroi. A large number of students from both schools were present to cheer their respective teams along to greater efforts.

Bishop Whitehead to Confirm Class

The Right Rev. Cortland Whitehead, Bishop of the Pittsburgh diocese of the Protestant Episcopal church will visit Monessen to administer the Right of Confirmation on Sunday June 2. He will also preach. The services will be held in the English Lutheran church, Eighth street and Donner avenue at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. All friends are urged to attend this service.

BAPTISTS PUT ONE OVER ON THE PRESBYS

A miserable exhibition of ball playing was offered yesterday afternoon at Page park in the Church League game between the Baptists and the Presbyterians on the part of the losers, the Presby's. With the exception of the first and fifth innings when the Baptists ran wild and scored five tallies the game was fairly well played. Carr for the aptist's pitched a good game, keeping the hits well scattered and he was ably supported by his teammates, not a foozle being charged up against them. Features of the game were catches by Manown and Myers and the all round work of the "Hardshells."

In the first Bosworth was safe on second on an error by Underwood, Hogg sacrificed. Savage drove out a fly which was missed and Bosworth was out at third on the play. Gillespie reached first. The Presbyterian battery got their signals crossed and Savage scored on a wild pitch. Lindsay rapped out a two bagger scoring Gillespie and was caught trying to make it a three bagger. In the fourth the Baptists scored anotherwhen Gilespie was safe on an error reached second on an infield out and scored on a hit to right by Lindsay. In the fifth the balloon went up and with two timely hits and three errors the Baptist's put the game out of the barms reach. The Presby's scored their runs in the fifth when Bauers doubled, Lane singled, both advancing on a passed ball and scoring on Bumbaugh's single. The score:

LITTLE TOTS WANT TO SEE THE SHOWS

Last night Lucile Hunter and Dorothy Derby, two little girls from the Hill, each aged three years, made up a little "party of two" and decided that it would be so nice to go down street in the cool of the evening, just like big people do, take in the picture shows and see the sights. However, the tots overlooked the point that a little money would be necessary to carry out their little theatre party plan; they marched off, arm-in-arm, down Sixth street hill and walked timidly up to the ticket windows of the nickelodions, one after the other, but each time they were disappointed, being told that it required 5 cent.

The poor kids, nursing their disappointment and making the best of their failure, decided that it would be nice to pay a visit to the old home or neighborhood where the Hunter family had once lived, on First street hill. They went toddling along, each with one arm around the other; they arrived at the old home, but alas, how changed! They could find no one they knew—not a familiar face, a dog or a cat—and they trudged on, gazing up at the houses and into the faces of every one they met. They wandered clear on to Dutchtown, and finding themselves lost, they started to pick their way homeward, tired and weary.

In the meantime another scene was being enacted. The tots had been missed; the parents of each became excited, some hysterical; the alarm was given and almost the entire hill populace was out searching for the lost or missing ones. They found traces and followed on from place to place, and at last, about 8 o'clock, the tired and footsore travelers were met slowly wending their way home.

There was joy in two households and in fact an entire neighborhood. So tired out were the kidlets that it was necessary be carry them home, and after being given a light supper, washed up and tucked away in their little beds, they were asleep in less than no time, dreaming sweetly of the various "moving pictures" they saw on their little jaunt.

That Democracy is drifting Bryanward is evidenced by every sign and signal wafted from party headquarters at various points all over the Union, and as each day passes the trend grows stronger and stronger in favor of the man from Nebraska. The Bryan League of Pennsyvania is working to stampede the convention and hand the nomination to the "peerless one" and every effort is being exerted to bring other states in line. Attorney George W. Acklin, one of Pittsburgh's leading attorneys, president of the Bryan League of that city, and born and raised in the old Monongahela valley, near Brownsville, is informed by an Iowa leader that Democrats of that state have formed a Bryan League with headquarters at Des Moines. Minnsota is also considering very strongly the Bryan drift and thus the straws show which way the wind blows at the present time. There seems every reason to think that Mr. Bryan will be the party choice as standard bearer when the convention opens in Boston in June.

Merchants in East Liberty, Pittsburgh, have just concluded a novel contest, in which the public were participants. It was a window trimming contest, the peope voting their opinions as to which was the most artictic, attractive and common sensed. The contest attracted hundreds of people to the East End, and incidentally to the stores of that district. A simlar contest in Monessen on a smaller scale would no doubt serve to increase public interest in the welfare of the home merchants. Why should not Monessen merchants give it a trial?

To that class of persons who speak of sentiment as though it were something to be ashamed of we commend the following from our esteemed contemporary, the Altoona Tribune: "'A mere matter of sentiment' is frequently one of the most powerful of forces. The man who is destitute of sentiment must be an unfortunate individual. The soul ever rises to higher levels upon the tides of feeling."

It is said there was a scarcity of apple blossoms in this region, and of course that means a light apple crop; but this it not to be wondered at. We had a great crop of apples last year, and we seldom if ever have two big crops in succession.

If less than one-half the qualified vote of a party is polled at a primary, and a successful candidate gets a trifle more than one-half of that, how much is he the overwhelming choice of the party? No prizes are offered for the solution of the puzzle.

The report of that scientist that gold can be now made artificially is not new by any means. We have heard it often, but it usually wound up by some one being arrested for doing it.

The fact that this country imported 2,500,000 bushels of potatoes in February, seems to indicate that it would be something of a gain for us if we raised more spuds and less politics.

The man who begins to crank up his lawn mower at five in the morning ought to be compelled to equip it with a muffler.

AFTER MEASLES

Young Girl Was Badly Run Down—What She Did

Parents too often make the mistake of thinking that certain diseases of childhood, such as measles and whooping cough, are harmless.

Measles are very likely to weaken the kidneys and leave serions effects unless the system is built up with a reliable strength creator such as Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron preparation without oil.

Miss Marion Shaver, a young girl of Luzerne, N. Y., says: "I had measles several months ago and it left me in very bad condition, weak and rundown. After several months of this, I took Vinol to build me up. It has done me much good. I have gained both strength and weight and my appetite is good."

In all weakened and rundown conditions of the body, from any cause, Vinol should be used to create new blood and increase strength. We gaurantee it to do this and will pay back your money if it does not. Hirsch Drug Co., Monessen.

THE GOLDEN AGE AT HAND.

Scriptural Evidences That Are Astonishing—No One Can Afford to Be Without the Knowledge.

We do our friends a valuable service when we call their attention to the valuable book entitled, "THE TIME IS AT HAND," in which are given many Scriptural evidences to prove where we are on the stream of time.

"Men's hearts are failing them for fear" and many of the leading thinkers are proposing remedies to better conditions. The Scriptures assure us that man's extremity will be God's opportunity, and this book holds out an anchor to those who fear the wave of unrest now spreading over the world.

The honest heart confesses that it is at a loss for an explanation of transpiring events. While we refer to this as the BRAIN AGE and the Age of ENLIGHTENMENT, nevertheless many realize that we are fast approaching a crisis which is wrapped in darkness owing to the present world-wide social, religious and political unrest.

As though by instinct the whole creation, while it groans and travails in pain together, waits for, longs for and hopes for the DAY, calling it the "GOLDEN AGE"; yet men grope blindly because not aware of the great Jehovah's gracious purposes. And to his wondering creatures, looking at the length and breadth, the height and depth of the love of God, surpassing all expectation, He explains, "My thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord; for as the heavens are higher than the earth so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts." Isa. 55.8, 9.

Widowed on Wedding Day.

To have been bachelor, married man and widower all in the space of twelve hours was the unique but tragic experience of a young man in Belfast, Ireland, recently. Married in Christ church at noon, the bridegroom at midnight became a widower, for at that hour the bride died of an acute attack of appendicitis.

Evidently a Diplomat.

A courtier taking leave of Louis XIV., who was sending him as an ambassador to a foreign court, was told by the king: "My most important instruction for you is to pursue a policy entirely different from that of your predecessor." "Sire," said the diplomatist, "I will endeavor to do so, that your majesty may not repeat the advice to my successor."

FAMILIES MADE HOMELESS BY FIRE AT NAOMI MINES

Four families are homeless as the result of a disastrous fire, which broke out early yesterday morning at Naomi a few miles on the other side of Belle Vernon and burned four houses to the ground with a loss of approximately $6,000.

The fire started in the home of Edward Lightner. An oil lamp exploded in the bed room of Mrs. Lightner and soon the entire house was ablaze. The family, however was able to escape without injury.

Without any facilities for fighting the blaze, the fire soon spread to several houses, all of which are in the same block. The houses occupied by Grant Deiger, Charles Abbott and Elmer Alder were also totally destroyed.

When the fire broke out several of the men whose houses burned were at work in the coal mines. A bucket brigade was formed and several buildings were saved from destruction through their prompt and efficient work.

WHEN ROYALTY VISITS US

Writer Recalls Sundry Times When Various Exalted Persons Failed to Disturb Our Composure.

Writing on the visit of the Connaughts tc New York, F. D Dunne in the Metropolitan Magazine says:

"Other royal personages have looked us over in the past The late king of England came to America before the war and must have been extremely active on his feet for at least 10,000 old ladies are still alive who danced with him. Princess Louise we always remember with respect as the first person who had the courage to speak out against the filth and indecency of the American sleeping car of the time. We had Dom Pedro of Brazil with us for awhile. Ten years ago we were favored with the presence of Prince Henry of Prussia. Long before that came the king of the Sandwich islands, an agreeable brown rotentate with a taste for drawing to inside straights. It is so long ago that we can't recall whether the ladies of New York made themselves agreeable to him in the historic manner of the Cannibal islands by asking him in to pick an acquaintance with them, but it is a fact of history that the proprietor of a hotel in Chicago did meet him at the door and inquire whether he wouldn't like to go to his room and wash up. Under all these honors, as far as we are informed, the American public bore itself with some degree of composure, but the arrival of the duke on a purely social visit was too much for the pent-up aristocratic emotions of all sections of the population, and they received him with as great a show of fealty as though he were the reigning prince and they his sworn subjects."

GOLD SEEKERS OF LONG AGO

They Took Large Quantities of the Precious Metal From Brazil 150 Years Ago.

Alexander P. Rogers, a mining engineer who recently made an inland voyage by river from the mouth of the Amazon to Buenos Ayres, found proof that the same regions had been overrun 150 years ago by a band of adventurous goldseekers

They were remarkably successful in their search for gold, too, and found every mine which is known today in that region.

At a mine near Matto Grosso they had brought in a small army of slaves and cleared off the jungle for a mile around, while others were set to work constructing a long ditch to bring water to the flat below. It was a clever piece of work for men without surveyors' instruments. They cut the ditch through a cement formation that in places was twenty feet deep, and near the lower end they constructed a great chamber in which they ground the ore between huge rocks Whether they used mercury to amalgamate the gold I could not determine, but several stone tanks and sluices made me think that possibly they did They built a town around these works with a brick kiln and a distillery as the most important adjuncts. It must have been a busy and exciting place to live in, ruled over by an iron hand, the master's word law in everything, and a cruel law it was.

They took out a large amount of gold. And then, to enjoy it, they had to get out to the civilized world with it, through 3,000 miles of hostile country, where freebooters lay in wait.

To Detect Fire Damp in Mines.

One of the simplest of the many suggested tests for fire damp in mines is that described to the Scottish Society of Arts It is an attachment that may be applied to any oil or spirit safety lamp, and consists of a loop of copper wire supported on a brass rod passing through the oil vessel. To make a test the loop is moved into the flame. This becomes instantly nonluminous, but if fire damp is present in the air the gas cap is clearly seen. The test can be made in a moment, at any time, without turning down or putting out the light. It is claimed that the percentage of fire damp this method will detect is exceedingly small, and the results of trials in both laboratory and mine go to show that this is one of the most sensitive, accurate, and expeditious means of revealing the presence of inflammable gas in mine or other air.

Plan to Make Rome Seaport.

The latest project to make Rome a seaport is to lay out a port 35 feet deep near Castel Fusaro, formed by running two jetties out into the sea for some distance, as at the port of Ymuiden, Holland. From the port will lead a ship canal 15 miles long and 200 feet wide and 27 feet deep. At Rome shipping accommodations will be laid out in the river below the city, and this will be connected with the navigable part of the Tiber by a system of locks. It will cost about $15,000,000 to carry out the project. Opponents or the idea claim it will not pay, but the promoters affirm that when once the city is connected with the Mediterranean there will result a great amount of traffic.

Refutation Tours.

"People are very likely to believe what they see in print."

"Yep," replied Farmer Corntossel. "That's why those candidates have to keep travelin' around the country so much. They have to prove that they don't look like some of the pictures of 'em that get into the papers."

SMITHTON MAN ON TRIAL FOR MURDER OF FRIEND

Sheppard Moore of Smithton is on trial in Judge Doty's court for his life. Moore is charged with nrst degree murder, having shot down in cold blood, Louis Globish on February 12th last. Moore and Globish had some trouble a year before and during an encounter Moore was stabbed by Globish. The latter was sent to the penitentiary and served a term. He had just returned to Smithton when Moore took advantage of the first meeting to ease his system of an old grudge. He went to the jewelry store of Robert Wolf and purchased a revolver and walked into a bar room. As Globish entered Moore is alleged to have swept the revolver from his pocket and fired two bullets into his body. He fell and died almost instantly. The murderer then returned to the jeweler, left the revolver and walked to the office of Squire N. E. Rhodes where he gave himself up exclaiming that he shot one man an maybe two. Moore was placed in the lockup and was taken to Greensburg the next day where he was lodged in prison to await trial.

He is about 55 years of age and has a wife an ten children. When brought into the court room yesterday the prisoner was calm and sat at the end of the table near his counsel Denna C. Ogden, and was apparently unmoved by the serious situation which confronted him. It was the general opinion that a first degree verdict would result in which case Moore will either have to go to the gallows or serve a life sentence.

MORGANTOWN SOPHS ATTEMPT TO BRIBE CAPTAIN

Says the Morgantown New Dominion: "The Sophomore boat ride for this year has been indefinitely postponed. Three members of the class made a trip to Fairmont yesterday in an effort to induce President Jacobs, of the packet company which owns the I. C. Woodward, to place the craft at the disposal of the class for Thursday evening. Their efforts failed, however, Mr. Jacobs refusing to be coaxed or bribed into delaying the boat's regular trip. The Woodward arrived here from Fairmont late yesterday afternoon and continued her journey to Pittsburgh. Her delay on the trip from Pittsburgh was due to the inspector who found one of the boilers in need of a new crown sheet. This was put in before the journey began."

We always have had the impression that Morgantown was sort of a slow going, backward sort of a place, but guess we were sightly in error. We did have a bit of respect for the place and liberally attributed her shortcomings to inexperience and lack of contact with the outside world, but we did not think she would stoop to bribing a president or captain of a great navigation company to take his boat out of the regular trade, right in the midst of a city-bound trip, just to carry a school excursion party. Really it don't look as though the cause justified the means, and when a newspaper of that town comes out boldly and acknowledges the corn, it looks so much the worse. It does seem that the inhabitants of that cultured residence town of knowledge has yet to learn the truth of that good old adage, "Honesty is the best policy."

Woman Dies From Burns

From injuries sustained when she was frightfully burned at her home in Washington Wednesday morning, Mrs. Anna Landay died at the hospital last evening shortly before 5 o'clock. The accident was caused by the wind blowing her skirt over the blaze. Her clothing caught fire and in a moment she was a mass of flames.

When Spring Comes

"Well, it's beginnin' to look a little like spring, ain't it?" ventured the groceryman as he tramped a muddy path across the kitchen floor and began dumping the supplies on the table. "I ain't seen no robin yet, like some of these guys that's writin' to the papers, but I kin sort o' feel it in my bones. Spring fever, I guess, huh?"

The pretty cook smiled disdainfully as she brought out the mop and started to clean up her floor.

"That's a good name to call it, I suppose," she said. "I know when my brothers back on the farm got so lazy they couldn't do anything but go fishing they used to talk about spring fever. But my poor old father had to do all the chores—he was too busy to have spring fever."

"That's the way—jump on me," said the groceryman mournfully. "Just when I thought prob'ly you'd get a little bit sentimental about the comin' of spring and matin' of birds and—and all that. Don't you never feel that way in the spring, Evelina? You know—like you ought to have a strong arm to lean on?"

"Any time I want a strong arm to lean on I know where to find one," retorted the pretty cook. "If you don't want to feel a strong arm yourself you'll go along out of this kitchen and let me get my work done."

The groceryman sighed and moved slowly as far as the door with his box under his arm, but he kept his gaze on the pretty cook.

"I wisht I could think up some way of makin' you feel the way I do," he said gloomily, "so's you wouldn't hand me a bump like that every time I try to talk about somethin' besides groceries. I should think you'd want to look ahead a little bit and sort o' think where you'll be five years from now. Let's figger a little, Evelina, won't you?" he added, anxiously.

The pretty cook jerked the kettle off the stove and poised it menacingly, but the stream splashed into the dishpan a moment later, and the groceryman breathed more freely.

"If that's the way spring fever makes you talk,' she said, "you'd better go and see a doctor and get it out of your system. I'm too busy to do any figuring this morning, and that wagon load of groceries you've got out there in the street will get wilted if you don't hurry along with 'em. What are you waiting for, anyhow? We pay our grocery bill by the week, you know."

"I know," said the groceryman, edging slowly toward the door. "I ain't worryin' none about your bill. If you folks was to fall a little behind and the boss should mention it to me, Evelina, I'd just pay it myself on account of you, rather than say anything to your missus. Honest, I'd settle it up and work it all out if it took me six months. That's the kind of friend I am."

"What do I care?" said the maid, scornfully. "I shouldn't be surprised if it took you six months to earn what our grocery bill is every week—the prices that man you're working for is charging nowadays."

"Aw, now, I didn't expect you to get into the knockers' club about the prices,' protested the groceryman. "I've told you half a dozen times that we don't get the money! It's them farmers that's gettin' it all. Haven't you been readin' about 'em ridin' around in automobiles and havin' telephones from the house to the barn to give the hired man orders, and all that? Us folks are payin' for that swell business, and it's the poor grocer who gets the blame. That's just what I was thinkin' when it felt so balmy and springlike today—if I only had a nice little place in the country, with a few pigs an' calves—"

"You'd feel right at home, wouldn't you?" snapped the pretty cook. "That's where you'd shine. The pigs wouldn't mind how much you loafed—they're used to it, from al I've seen of pigs. And the calves wouldn't care how much noise you made—you could stand around and talk to them all day and not bother 'em a bit. But folks happen to have work to do, and if you get in their way you're likely to get into trouble."

The groceryman sighed again and slowly edged his way out to the back porch. But still he hesitated.

"I can't understand it," he mused aloud. "Now, to look at you, Evelina, anybody would think you was a real sentimental girl that would sympathize with a feller when he's feelin'—"

With a deft move the pretty cook stepped behind the door and closed it on the sentimental groceryman.—Chicago Daily News.

A Lover of Candor.

Impecunious Man—I wish you would be so kind as to loan me $5. I'll pay you back in a few days.

Candid Friend—If you had asked me for the loan in a candid and straightforward manner I would have lent you the money, but asking me in the way you did causes me to distrust you.

"I don't understand you."

"You asked me to be so kind as to lend you $5."

"Yes."

"If you had been candid you would have said to me: 'Be so stupid, be such an ignominious ass, such a hopeless idiot as to lend me $5, and you might have got it.'"
